The Steuart by Citrus is a mid-market hotel located in one of Colombo's most popular tourist haunts amid the collection of hotels, restaurants and bars around the site of the old Dutch hospital in the heart of the Fort. It does the basics well for the weary western traveller, offering good-quality comfort food and beer in comfortable surroundings. When this eight-floor property was transformed to its current representation, it stayed true to its Scottish roots with a purple and black plaid theme running through its interiors. The Steuart has 50 rooms, all of which are spaciouly cosy and are decorated with Scottish clan crests above the head board. In-room facilities include A/C, cable TV, safe, mini fridge and coffee and tea making facilities. The ensuite bathrooms have toiletries and showers with h/w facilities. The hotel's in-house pub/restaurant has gained a reputation for its delicious food and is a popular watering hole for many locals and foreigners. It offers many pub favourites including fish and chips and shepherd's pie. For those seeking a laidback English pub atmosphere in the middle of Sri Lanka, The Steuart fits the bill. The hotel also has a meeting room that can be used for formal meetings and presentations and a mini-gymnasium. The Steuart by Citrus is located in Colombo Fort, an hour from the airport.

MEET THE ELEPHANTS WITH AN ELEPHANT EXPERT - WITH OUT LUNCH

KEGALLE, SRI LANKA

Meet an authority on Sri Lankan elephants for the morning or afternoon to learn about the real story behind elephant captivity. You will visit the Millennium Elephant Foundation (MEF), an organisation with eight elephants in residence. The foundation pays for all food and medical bills for the elephants and also provide elephants with specialist care, an individual mahout and a supporting team. The elephants do no heavy manual work and are well provided for with food, water, vitamins, regular vet checks and medical treatment and regular exercise. Your host, along with a dedicated team at MEF, are fighting for more rights for their elephants, however, captive elephants still have owners and ultimately these owners get decisions over how the elephants are treated. Most of the elephants at MEF are chained up due to the requests of their owners. The foundation also offers elephant riding. Your host is working with the foundation to try and change this, with the aim to eventually release the elephants from their chains and stop elephant riding all together. They will talk you through the efforts of the foundation, give you an opportunity to walk with the elephants, bathe the elephants, and visit the on-site elephant dung factory. This experience allows you to get up-close-and-personal with the elephants whilst understanding the complex issues that affect their conservation within Sri Lanka. Captive elephants – what to expect: The chains that some elephants wear are considered to be for safety, both for their own and of the people they interact with as some elephants can be temperamental. Each elephant has a mahout, a caretaker that stays with the elephant throughout the day, and sometimes at night as well. Being a mahout is a dangerous job, all mahouts use a hook that touches some 96 pressure points in the animal's body to control it – when used correctly, the hook does not hurt the animal. None of the elephants at MEF are used for labor.

INCLUDES:

A guided visit through the center, refreshments, a driver and vehicle. special experiences like washing the elephants and walking alongside or feeding the elephants are optional and included in the entrance ticket.

HIGHLIGHTS:

Sri Lanka has a long and complicated history with elephants, many of whom live in captivity in poor conditions. There are numerous organisations within Sri Lanka who 'rescue' captive elephants (privately owned by temples, organizations or individuals) and provide these elephants a retirement home as most of them are old, sick and/or badly injured. Spend a few hours with an elephant expert and animal rights activist who will give you the unique opportunity to meet, walk with, and bathe the elephants they look after at the Millennium Elephant Foundation, an organisation that have been working continually to improve the care, protection and treatment of captive elephants in Sri Lanka by providing a place of sanctuary and medical services and facilities.

VISIT TO THE TEMPLE OF THE TOOTH
KANDY, SRI LANKA

Sri Dalada Maligawa or the Temple of the Sacred Tooth Relic is a Buddhist temple in the city of Kandy, Sri Lanka. It is located in the royal palace complex which houses the relic of the tooth of Buddha. Since ancient times, the relic has played an important role in local politics because it is believed that whoever holds the relic holds the governance of the country. Kandy was the last capital of the Sri Lankan kings and is a UNESCO world heritage site partly due to the temple. Monks of the two chapters of Malwatte and Asgiriya conduct daily worship in the inner chamber of the temple. Rituals are performed three times daily: at dawn, at noon and in the evenings. On Wednesdays there is a symbolic bathing of the Sacred Relic with an herbal preparation made from scented water and fragrant flowers, called Nanumura Mangallaya. This holy water is believed to contain healing powers and is distributed among those present.
